

Crafton Hills College's Annual Herbivore Festival presents

Our Kinship with Plant Beings and their use in Shamanic Rituals

Presented by

Ashina

Our ancestors perceived plants as more than things to grow, smell, climb, and eat. They are kin. And they facilitate our cultivation as we facilitate theirs. Their nurturing and healing energies, the ancients taught, are roused by the passionate embrace of Fire, the gentle caress of Air, and the loving kiss of Water.

Dr. Ashina Maron (BSN, RN, MA, PhD), a published author, singer/songwriter, and long-time teacher and practitioner of her people's ancient ways, will illuminate not only our understanding of the magical qualities of Sprouting Beings but will also share ways in which we might work with them in enriching the quality of our lives, physically and spiritually. "The grasses," she writes, "have their own song, and when we sing or chant with them, our spirits merge with theirs and our life force becomes more deeply rooted in the earth and our souls more attuned to the heavens."

For More Information, Visit www.herbivorefestival.com and follow Herbivore Festival on Facebook at www.facebook.com/herbivorefestival.com

Herbivore Festival

Helping People, Animals and the Planet

Sunday, May 6, 2018 at 12:30 PM on the Crafton Hills College Campus in Yucaipa, California

Visit Ashina's Website at www.MiriamsCyberWell.com and follow her on Facebook at www.facebook.com/Rabbi-Dr-Miriam-Ashina-Maron-10150118757005487/

Admission: Free

